50 State Legal Matrix – Anti-Indemnity Statutes for 2023

The following matrix provides insight into state anti-indemnity statutes. Forty-five (45) states have enacted anti-indemnity statutes that limit or prohibit enforcing indemnification agreements in construction settings. Anti-indemnity legislation is intended to prevent the party with superior bargaining power from taking advantage of the party with inferior power. Also, some states with anti-indemnity legislation protect only the government by limiting the application of these rules to public projects.

50 State Legal Matrix – Architects/Engineers/Land Surveyors Claim and Settlement Reporting Requirements for 2023

The following matrix provides insight into state statutory and regulatory reporting requirements for claims asserted against Architects, Engineers, and Land Surveyors. Many states require design professionals to report any legal claims and resulting settlements that stem from their respective practice areas. These reporting requirements vary significantly from state to state. The general consensus is that whenever a professional Architect, Engineer, or Land Surveyor has a legal claim brought against them, the regulatory agency for the state they are licensed in may require disclosure of that claim and/or settlement. This disclosure may be required by state agencies to determine whether to investigate the design professional in an effort to regulate malpractice. The following reporting requirements are derived from state statutes and regulatory rules established by professional boards of each profession.

*Please note that two states, California and Colorado, also have an insurance carrier statutory reporting requirement to the regulatory boards for the respective design professionals and are further detailed below in the matrix.

Please be advised that hyperlinks were added to the statutory and regulatory citations. By clicking on the citation hyperlinks, you will be brought to the regulatory webpage containing the statutes and rules that will provide the relevant information.

50 State Legal Matrix – Contractors Licensing & Contract Requirements for 2023

Construction contractors are subject to regulations of the state in which they seek to work. While some states require contractors to be licensed (involving a process to prove reasonable competency) for certain categories of work, others only require contractors to be registered (recording who is performing the work without any guarantee of expertise/competency). Additionally, while some states have licenses that cover all or most kinds of construction work, other states have distinct licensing categories based on whether the project in question is commercial or residential. Furthermore, some states have specific criteria for what must be included in the contracts entered into with/by a contractor as pertaining to their authorization to perform the contracted work within the state. These general requirements and standards are outlined below.

STATE	LICENSING REQUIREMENTS	CONTRACT DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS
Alabama	General contractors (and subcontractors) must obtain a commercial license for commercial projects of $50,000 or more . A residential license is required for projects of $10,000 or more . Ala. Code 1975 § 34-8-1;34-8-2. A contractor not properly licensed may not enforce (in AL courts) a construction contract exceeding $1,000. KLW Enterprises, Inc. v. West Alabama Commercial Industries, Inc. , 31 So. 3d 136, 137 (Ala. Civ. App. 2009).	Any bid for construction projects must include the bidding entity's licensing status within state. Ala. Code 1975 § 34-8-8 .
Alaska	Contractors may not submit a bid without being registered. AS § 08.18.011. Likewise, a general contractor may not use the bid of an unregistered sub-contractor in preparing a bid, unless the person is registered as a "specialty contractor." Id.; see AS § 08.18.024 . To undertake construction or alteration or take a bid for a privately- owned residential structure of 1 to 4 units, a contractor must have a residential contractor endorsement. AS §08.18.025 . Moreover, an unlicensed contractor "may not bring an action in the courts of this state for collection of compensation for the performance of work or for breach of contract for which the registration is required." AS § 08.18.151 .	Any contract (for the contracting business) must include the contractor's name, mailing address, address of the contractor's principal place of business, and state registration number. AS § 08.18.051.
Arizona	A license is required for a contractor to bid on any job exceeding $1000 in value. A.R.S. § 32-1152; A.R.S. § 32- 1123. An entity who submits such a bid without being licensed may be prohibited from obtaining a state license for one year from the date of the bid. A.R.S. § 32-1123.	Any contract exceeding $1,000 in value must contain the contractor's address and state license number. A.R.S. § 32-1158.
Arkansas	Contractors must be licensed to undertake projects of $50,000 or more. A.C.A. § 17-25-101 . Subcontractors of properly licensed general contractors need only to register with the Arkansas Contractors Licensing Board. Ark. Admin. Code 033.00 .1-224-25-7.	No known contract disclosure requirements at state-level. Local or municipal development authorities should be consulted for any such requirements.

California	Any entity seeking to undertake a project of $500 or more is required to be licensed by the state licensing board. Cal. B&P Code § 7048 .	In general, all commercial contracts must include the following statement with respect to the prime contractor: "Contractors are required by law to be licensed and regulated by the Contractors State License Board which has jurisdiction to investigate complaints against contractors if a complaint regarding a patent act or omission is filed within four years of the date of the alleged violation. A complaint regarding a latent act or omission pertaining to structural defects must be filed within 10 years of the date of the alleged violation. Any questions concerning a contractor may be referred to the Registrar, Contractors State License Board, P.O. Box 26000, Sacramento, CA 95826." Cal. B&P Code § 7030(a).
Colorado	Colorado does not have any state-level licensing or registration requirements for general contractors. All licensing is regulated, if at all, on the municipal level, and the local development authority should be contacted prior to commencing work on any project.	Colorado does not have any construction contract disclosure requirements at the state level. Local or municipal development authorities should be consulted for any such requirements.

50 State Legal Matrix – Employment Record Subpoena Responses for 2023

This matrix identifies each state's laws governing who can access an employee personnel file pursuant to a subpoena or employee request, what types of information must be excluded or redacted, the timeframe by which a response must be provided and other key considerations. State legislatures have adopted different approaches to regulating access to employee personnel files. Employers must comply with their state's laws when responding to current and former employees' requests to examine their personnel records, as well as subpoenas to produce employee personnel files during litigation. Specifically, states impose various requirements governing the maintenance and composition of personnel files, the timing of the response to a file request, and the scope of what is included in each employee's personnel file.

50 State Legal Matrix – Insurance Carriers' Record Retention Requirements for 2023

Historically, insurance carriers have been required by state law to retain physical records for a specified number of years. In recent years, nearly every state has enacted statutes that replace previous requirements for retention of physical records with standards allowing insurance companies to satisfy retention requirements with electronic records. The following table provides insurance record retention requirements for each state, including specific categories of records that must be maintained, the minimum number of years required for retention, and also identifies those states that have adopted an electronic record standard.

STATE	RETENTION REQUIREMENTS
Alabama	 All records must be maintained for not less than five (5) years. Ala. Admin. Code 482-1-11803. All advertisements must be maintained for five (5) years after discontinuation of the last use or publication of the advertisement. Ala. Admin. Code 482-1-132.10. The record retention requirement is satisfied by retaining an electronic record of the information which accurately reflects the information and remains accessible for future review or reference. The services of another (i.e., a record retention entity) may be used to satisfy this requirement. Ala. Stat. Ann. § 8-1A-12.
Alaska	Unless otherwise required by law or unless the director orders a longer retention period, a domestic insurer shall retain records required by AS 21.69.390 and 3 AAC 21.460 , including records relating to losses and claims, for the following period of time after the date the record is considered to be an obsolete record. Records of reinsurance transactions, ten (10) years or until completion of a full examination, whichever is longer. All other records are required to be retained for five (5) years or until completion of a full examination, whichever is longer. 3 AAC 21.470 . The record retention requirement is satisfied by retaining an electronic record of the information which accurately reflects the information and remains accessible for future review or reference. 50 State Legal Matrix – Licensing, Examination & Continuing Education Requirements for Independent Claims Adjusters for 2023

The term "independent claims adjuster" refers to an individual, other than a public adjuster, who undertakes on behalf of insurers or self-insurers to investigate, evaluate, and negotiate the resolution of the amount of a property, casualty, liability, disability, or workers' compensation claim, loss, or damage on behalf of an insurance policy or insurer or as a third-party on behalf of a self-insurer. Independent claims adjusters are licensed and regulated, if at all, by the state in which they are providing services. For persons who are currently licensed or intend to be licensed as an insurance Producer or Broker, it is strongly encouraged to review the appropriate state insurance website to determine eligibility to contemporaneously hold an active Independent Claim Adjuster license. The following table provides the requirements for independent claims adjusters regarding licensing, examinations, and continuing education, and also outlines applicable exceptions.

50 State Legal Matrix – Material Breach/First to Breach Rules for 2023

The following table provides insight into the general law of material breach for each state, including, the first to breach rule, nonpayment as material breach, and the prevention doctrine. A material breach of a contract is a breach that severely impairs the core of the contract, rendering the entire agreement unenforceable and, thus, undermining the entire purpose of the contract. In this instance, the parties to the contract fail to acquire the benefit of the bargained-for exchange. If a material breach occurs, the non-breaching party can terminate the agreement and petition a court for damages caused by the breach. In deciding whether a breach of contract constitutes a "material" breach, courts often look to guidance from the Restatement (Second) of Contracts, as well as historical court decisions arising from various contract disputes.

AL	A court should not enforce a contract when the party seeking enforcement failed to perform his part of the agreement. Gray v. Reynolds, 553 So.2d 79, 82 (Ala. 1989). Alabama courts have held that a material or substantial breach by one party [to a contract] excuses further performance by the other. Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v. Clay, 525 So.2d 1339, 1343 (Ala. 1987). A material breach is a breach "that touches the fundamental purposes of the contract and defeats the object of the parties in making the contract." LNM1, LLC v. TP Props., LLC, 296 So.3d 792 (Ala. 2019) (quoting Sokol v. Bruno's, Inc., 527 So. 2d 1245, 1248 (Ala. 1988)).	"'A repudiation is a manifestation by one party to the other that the first cannot or will not perform at least some of his obligations under the contract If a party 'wrongfully states that he will not perform unless the other party consents to a modification of the contract, the statement is a repudiation.' As a general rule, 'an anticipatory repudiation gives the injured party an immediate claim to damages for total breach, in addition to discharging his remaining duties of performance.'' Congress Life Ins. AZ	A material breach occurs where an oblige fails to receive the substantial benefit of the bargain due to the failure to perform or defective performance. Zancanaro v. Cross , 85 Ariz. 394, 399 (1959). Framework contained in Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 241 should be applied in determining triviality or immateriality of a breach. Foundation Dev. Corp. v. Loehmann's , 163 Ariz. 438 (Ariz. 1990). A material breach excuses the non-breaching party from performing under the contract; a non-material breach merely permits a claim for damages. Chartone, Inc. v. Bernini, 207 Ariz. 162, 170 (App. 2004). One of the remedies available at common law upon a material breach of contract is the right to cease performance and recover the profits which would have been made had the entire contract been performed. Zancanaro v. Cross , 85 Ariz. 394, 399 (1959). Arizona courts have also held that an uncured material breach of contract relieves the non- breaching party from the duty to perform and can discharge that party from the contract. Murphy Farrell Dev., LLLP v. App. 1979) (affirming trial court's ruling of summary judgment in favor of steel subcontractor's claim for breach of contract against general contract or for failure to make timely payments).	The doctrine of prevention pertains to the prevention or hindrance of the performance of a condition not to be performed by the promisor, when the promisor has no right under the contract to hinder or interfere with such performance. Sec. Nat'l Life Ins. Co. v. Pre-Need Camelback Plan , 19 Ariz. App. 580, 582–83 (1973). FL	A contracting party, faced with a material breach by the other party, may treat the contract as totally breached and stop performance. Miami Beach v. Carner , 579 So.2d 248, 251 (Fla. 3d DCA 1991). To determine whether the conduct rose to the level of a "material breach," courts must look to the language of the contract and measure the breaching party's shortfall or failure in performance. JF & LN , LLC v. Royal Oldsmobile-GMC Trucks Co. , 292 So.3d 500, 509 (Fla. 2d DCA 2020). "To constitute a vital or material breach a defendant's nonperformance must be such as to go to the essence of the contract; it must be the type of breach that would discharge the injured party from further contractual duty on his part." Id. (quoting Beefy Trail, Inc. v. Beefy King Intern., Inc. , 267 So.2d 853, 857 (Fla. 4th DCA 1972)).	In order for the "First to Breach" rule to apply, the following elements must converge: (1) a first breach of contract; (2) the breach must be material or substantial; (3) the contract provision breached must be a dependent covenant; and (4) the non-breaching party must not have waived the right to enforce the prior breach against the opposing party. See Northern Trust Invs., N.A. v. Domino, 896 So.2d 880, 882 (Fla. 4th DCA 2005) (holding that "[a] material breach of the agreement allows the non-breaching party to treat the breach as a discharge of his contract liability."); See Richland Towers, Inc. v. Denton, 139 So.3d 318, 321 (Fla. 2d DCA 2014) (holding that "[i]n determining the existence of a prior breach, the circuit court necessarily had to determine the parties' obligations under the contracts were dependent covenants."). NM	New Mexico courts have described a material breach as the "failure to do something that is so fundamental to the contract that the failure to perform that obligation defeats an essential purpose of the contract." Famiglietta v. Ivie- Miller Enters. , 126 N.M. 69, 74 (Ct. App. 1998) (quoting Horton v. Horton, 487 S.E.2d 200, 204 (Va. 1997)). When considering the materiality of a breach, New Mexico courts consider the following five factors: (1) the extent to which the injured party will be deprived of the benefit he or she reasonably expected to receive from the contract; (2) the extent to which the breaching party will suffer forfeiture if the breach is deemed material; (3) whether the injured party can be adequately compensated in damages for the breach; (4) the likelihood that the breaching party will cure his or her failure to perform under the contract; and (5) whether the breaching party's conduct comported with the standards of good faith and fair dealing. Id.	The "prior breach" doctrine is an equitable argument typically asserted by a defendant who has been sued for specific performance by a plaintiff who was the first to breach the contract. OR cont.	The Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 241 (1981).
	The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has long recognized the established precept of contract law that a material breach of a contract relieves the non-breaching party from any continuing duty of performance thereunder. LJL Transp., Inc. v. Pilot Air Freight Corp., 962 A.2d 639, 648 (Pa. 2009) (citing Berkowitz v. Mayflower Securities, 317 A.2d 584, 586 (Pa. 1974)). It is equally well established, that "[a] party also may not insist upon performance of the contract when he himself is guilty of a material breach of the contract." Id. (quoting Ott v. Buehler Lumber, 541 A.2d 1143, 1145 (Pa. Super. 1988)). The Pennsylvania Supreme Court had "no difficulty in concluding that when there is a breach of contract going directly to the essence of the contract, which is so exceedingly grave as to irreparably damage the trust between the contracting parties, the non-breaching party may terminate the contract without notice, absent explicit contractual provisions to the contrary." Id. at 567. While a "material breach" relieves a non-breaching party of its obligation to perform, Pennsylvania law is clear that "executed contracts cannot be	Under the first to breach rule, when a party materially breaches a contract, the non- breaching party's contractual duties are relieved. Northstar Fin. Cos. v. "It is well established that the failure to make payments when they are due is a material breach of a construction contract which excuses a contractor from further performance." E. Elec. Corp. of New Jersey v. Shoemaker Const. Co., 657 F. Supp. 2d 545, 556 (E.D. Pa. 2009).	Under Pennsylvania law, "performance of a contract or offer to perform it is excused and rendered unnecessary when it is prevented by the acts of the other party or is rendered impossible by him." Phila. TV Network, Inc. v. Reading Broad., Inc. , 2005 Phila. Ct. Com. PI. LEXIS 307, *71. A party "may not, in fact, take advantage of an insurmountable obstacle placed, by himself, in the part of the other party's adherence to an agreement. 	To determine materiality, Pennsylvania courts refer to the Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 241 (1981), which sets forth the following factors to guide the inquiry: a) the extent to which the injured party will be deprived of the benefit which he reasonably expected; b) the extent to which the injured party can be adequately compensated for Restatement (Second) of Contracts Section 245. It is sufficient for the plaintiff to present evidence that the defendant's prevention "substantially contributed" to the nonoccurrence of the condition. Once he has made such proof, the burden shifts to the defendant. If the defendant can show that the condition would not have occurred regardless of the prevention, then the prevention did not contribute materially to its nonoccurrence and the condition is not excused. The prevention doctrineoperates as an exception to the general rule that one has a duty to perform under a contract containing a condition precedent until it occurs. Johnson v. Coss, 667 N.W.2d 701, 706. See also Williston Section 39:4 Prevention is similar to the concept of 'waiver by estoppel' in the context of excuses for nonperformance of contractual duties. An individual who prevents the occurrence of a condition may be said to be 'estopped' from benefiting from the fact that the condition precedent to his or her obligation failed to occur. Id. See also Williston Section 39:7 . The prevention doctrine does not require proof that the condition would have occurred 'but for' the wrongful conduct of the promisor; instead it only requires that the conduct have 'contributed materially' to the non-occurrence of the condition. Id. (citing Moore Bros. Co. v. Brown & Root, Inc., 207 F.3d 717, 725). Whether interference by one party to a contract amounts to prevention so as to excuse performance by the other party and constitute a breach by the interfering party is a question of fact to be decided by the jury under all of the proved facts and circumstances. Id. at 707. App. 1987) (affirming trial court's ruling that subcontractor was entitled to damages for nonpayment by general contractor). Texas courts have long recognized that an unjustified failure to pay may be held to be a material breach. See, e.g., Texas Bank & Trust Co. v. Campbell Bros., Inc., 569 S.W.2d 35, 39-40 (Tex. Civ. AppDallas 1978), dismissed, (Nov. 1, 1978); Taylor-Fichter Steel Const. Co. v. Curtis, 144 S.W.2d 285, 288 (Tex. Civ. AppBeaumont 1940), writ dismissed, judgment correct, (Nov. 20, 1940). However, whether nonpayment or late payment is a material breach will depend upon the facts of a particular case. See Mustang Pipeline Co., Inc., 134 S.W.3d 195, 199-200, 158 O.G.R. 810 (Tex. 2004). Materiality is an issue "to be determined by the trier of facts." Bartush-Schnitzius Foods Co. v. Cimco Refrigeration, Inc., 518 S.W.3d 432, 436 (Tex. 2017). Materiality may be decided as a matter of law only if reasonable jurors could reach only one verdict. See City of Keller v. Wilson, 168 S.W.3d 802, 822 (Tex. 2005) ("If the evidence at trial would enable reasonable and fair-minded people to differ in their conclusions, then jurors must be allowed to do so."). 	 Dorsett v. Cross, 106 S.W.3d 213, 217 (Tex. App. 2003) (citing O'Shea v. Int'l Bus. Mach. Corp., 578 S.W.2d 844, 846 (Tex. App. 2003)). When the obligation of a party to a contract depends upon a certain condition's being performed, and the fulfillment of the condition is prevented by the act of the other party, the condition is considered fulfilled. Id. (citing Houston County v. Leo L. Landauer & Assocs., Inc., 424 S.W.2d 458, 464 (Tex. App. 1968)). Texas courts do not apply the doctrine of prevented performance as an independent cause of action. In re iHeartMedia, Inc., supra, 597 B.R. at 3541 Albemarle Corp. v. MEMC Elec. Materials, Inc., 685 F.Supp.2d 652, 656 (S.D. Tex. 2010). However, Texas courts recognize the equitable doctrine of prevented performance as a rule of contract law within a cause of action for breach of contract. See Rich v. McMullan, 506 S.W.2d 745, 747 (Tex. Civ. App.—San Antonio 1974); Fluor Enters. v. Conex Int'l Corp., 273 S.W.3d 426, 442–443 (Tex. App.—Beaumont 2008).

Normally, the issue of whether a breach is a material one is a question of fact for the jury. Id. Where the facts presented are not in dispute, however, the issue of whether a contract has been performed or breached in a material way is a question of law for the court to decide. Id. (citing 17A Am. Jur. 2d, Contracts, § 608 (1991)).	The general rule in cases of anticipatory breach of contract is that where one party repudiates the contract and refuses longer to be bound by it, the injured party has an election to pursue any of three remedies: he may treat the contract as rescinded and recover on quantum meruit so far as he has performed; or he may keep the contract alive for the benefit of both parties, being at all times ready and able to perform, and at the end of the time specified in the contract for performance, sue and recover under the contract; or he may treat the repudiation as putting an end to the contract for all purposes of performance, and sue for the profits he would have realized, if he had not been prevented from performing. Yoak v. Marshall Univ. Under this doctrine, proof of active conduct preventing or hindering the fulfillment of a condition precedent and proof that the condition would have occurred or the performance of the return promise would have been rendered except for such prevention or hindrance may excuse or waive the performance of the condition precedent. Of course, mere speculation and conjecture about what might have happened will not satisfy the requirements of the prevention doctrine and the plaintiff must show that the defendant's conduct substantially contributed to non-occurrence of the condition. Moore Bros. 50 State Legal Matrix – Offer of Judgment Provisions for 2023

An "Offer of Judgment," also known as an Offer of Settlement or Offer to Compromise, is a rule aimed at encouraging settlement and controlling unnecessary litigation. Rule 68 of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure applies to Offer of Judgment in Federal matters. This matrix discusses when a settlement offer is designated as an Offer of Judgment in a state civil litigation matter. When an Offer of Judgment is served, then later rejected and the final court decision is less than favorable than the offer made, the party rejecting the offer can be subject to certain penalties. These penalties include the opposing side's costs, and in some circumstances, these costs include the payment of attorney's fees and/or the services of expert witnesses. An Offer of Judgment is not applicable in divorce proceedings or child custody.

NOTE: *Unless otherwise provided in the Offer of Judgment Rule, the reference to costs are assumed to be taxable costs (filing costs, service of process costs, etc.) and those rendered at the court's discretion. The states that include different or additional costs, such as attorneys' fees and/or expert services, will be outlined in the Consequence of Non-Acceptance column.

Please be advised that hyperlinks were added in the CITATION column. By clicking on the citation for each state, you will be brought to the appropriate state webpage that will provide the relevant information for each section.

P. 1.442 when making or accepting an offer of judgment (a/k/a "proposal for settlement" ("PFS") in Florida).	Strict rule of 30 days to either accept or reject, or deemed rejected. Either party may serve a PFS 90 days or more after commencement of the action.	If a plaintiff files a demand for judgment which is not accepted by the defendant within 30 days, and the plaintiff recovers a judgment that is 25% greater than the offer, the plaintiff shall also be entitled to recover their attorney's fees and costs incurred from the date of filing the demand. If a PFS is made by a defendant and rejected, the defendant shall be entitled to recover their attorney's fees and costs incurred from the date they filed the offer if the final judgment is: (a) no liability or (b) the judgment obtained by the plaintiff is 25% less than the offer made in the PFS. (1) The offer shall be served upon the party to whom it is made, but it shall not be filed unless it is accepted or unless filing is necessary to enforce the provisions of this section. A party may file a "notice of service of proposal for settlement" with the court at the time the offer/demand is made. (2) An offer shall be accepted by filing a written acceptance with the court within 30 days after service. Upon filing of both the offer and acceptance, the court has full jurisdiction to enforce the settlement agreement.

NV	Nev. R. Civ. 					 were reasonably necessary to prepare for and conduct trial. Often the court will require that the expert actually testify at trial to recover that expert's fees; and Applicable interest on the fees and expenses from the time of the offer to the time of entry of the judgment and reasonable attorney fees, if any be allowed, actually incurred by the offer of from the time of the offer to the date of entry of the judgment. Note that if a case is appealed and remanded, fees and expenses (and interest thereon) incurred for the appeal are also recoverable; and If the offeror's attorney is collecting a contingent fee, the amount of any attorney fees awarded to the party for whom the offer is made must be deducted from that contingent fee. Multiple Offers to Same Party: The penalties in this rule run from the date of service of the earliest rejected offer for which the offeree failed to obtain a more favorable judgment. Offers to Multiple Parties: The amount of the offer must be allocated amongst the parties if the offerees are solely derivative, such as where the damages claimed by all offerees are entirely derivative of an injury to the others or where the damages claimed by all offerees are entirely derivative of an injury to another; and (b) The same entity, person or group is authorized to decide whether to settle the claims of the offerees. NRCP 68 is a procedural rule. Nevada also has a statute (NRS Section 17.117) that is substantive in nature. So, it can be utilized in federal court. However, FRCP 68 does not provide for the award of attorney's fees, whereas NRS 17.117 does.

50 State Legal Matrix: Patient Record Subpoena Responses for 2023

This matrix identifies state laws such as who is authorized to access a patient's records with or without a subpoena and by when a subpoena must be responded to. This matrix also discusses whether there are certain restrictions on types of information that may be disclosed, as well as other laws that must be considered in determining the type of information that is permissible for disclosure. Subpoenas requesting patient records require careful consideration of a variety of state and federal laws, including HIPAA and 42 C.F.R. Part 2. For example, specific laws govern the disclosure of substance use disorders and psychotherapy or mental health records. Certain privileges such as peer review privileges or the Patient Safety and Quality Improvement Act may also impact the analysis regarding a permissible response to a subpoena.

50 State Legal Matrix - Right to Independent Counsel for 2023

An insured's right to independent counsel, i.e., an insured's right to select their own counsel and control their own defense, varies by state and is generally determined on a case-by-case basis depending on the facts and circumstances of the particular case. In some states, courts have held that an insured has a right to independent counsel under specific circumstances, such as when a conflict of interest arises between the insurer and the insured, or when the insurer outright fails to adequately represent the insured's interests. In other states, the right to independent counsel is expressly provided for by statute. Few states will address both. While the insurer-insured relationship generally imposes a duty on the insurer to defend the insured and hire counsel for the defense, a conflict of interest between the insured and the insurer will often allow the insured to control their own defense. The following legal matrix analyzes an insured's right to independent counsel in all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

STATE	ANSWER	RIGHT TO INDEPENDENT COUNSEL: SUPPORTING AUTHORITY
AL	No	Statute: The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law:
		In L&S Roofing Supply Co. v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Insurance Co. , the Alabama Supreme Court held that the "[m]ere fact that the insurer chooses to defend its insured under a reservation of rights does not ipso facto constitute such a conflict of interest that the insured is entitled at the outset to engage defense counsel of its choice at the expense of the insurer." L & S Roofing Supply Co. v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. , 521 So. 2d 1298, 1304 (Ala. 1987). However, because potential conflicts of interest exist in a reservation of rights defense, the insurer has an enhanced duty of good faith. Id. An insurer's failure to meet the enhanced obligation of good faith entitles the insured "[t]o retain defense counsel of its choice at the expense of the carrier." Id. at 13.
AK	Yes	Statute: If an insurer has a duty to defend an insured under a policy of insurance, and a conflict of interest arises that imposes a duty on the insurer to provide independent counsel to the insured, the insurer shall provide independent counsel to the insured unless the insured, in writing, waives the right to independent counsel. Alaska Stat. § 21.96.100(a).
	5	Case Law: In CHI of Alaska v. Employers Reinsurance Corp. , 844 P.2d 1113, 1118 (Alaska 1993), the Alaska Supreme Court held that when an insurer reserves its rights based upon either a coverage or a policy defense, the insurer must provide independent counsel. The Alaska Legislature responded to CHI by enacting legislation to codify the rule set forth by the Court. See Alaska Stat. § 21.96.100 . In Attorneys Liab. Prot. Soc'y, Inc. v. Ingaldson Fitzgerald, P.C. , the Alaska Supreme Court held that Alaska law prohibits enforcement of a policy provision entitling an insurer to reimbursement of fees and costs incurred by the insurer defending claims under a reservation of rights where: (1) the insurer explicitly reserved the right to seek such reimbursement in its offer to tender a defense provided by independent counsel, (2) the insured accepted the defense subject to the reservation of rights, and (3) the claims are later determined to be excluded from coverage under the policy, or it is later determined that the duty to defend never arose under the policy because there was no possibility of coverage. Attorneys Liab. Prot. Soc'y, Inc. v. Ingaldson Fitzgerald, P.C. , 370 P.3d 1101,1112 (Alaska 2016).

		Statute :
AZ	No	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law:
		In Paradigm , the Arizona Supreme Court held that when an insurer assigns an attorney to represent the insured, the lawyer owes a duty to the insurer arising from the understanding that the lawyer's services are ordinarily intended to benefit both insurer and insured when their interests coincide. Paradigm Ins. Co. v. Langerman Law Offices, P.A., 200 Ariz. 146, 155 (2001).
		Conflicts between the insurer and the insured may arise over "the existence of coverage, the manner in which the case is to be defended, the information to be shared, the desirability of settling at a particular figure or the need to settle at all, and an array of other factors applicable to the circumstances of a particular case [W]hen a conflict actually arises, and not simply when it potentially exists, the lawyer's duty is exclusively owed to the insured and not the insurer. Because a lawyer is expressly assigned to represent the insured, the lawyer's primary obligation is to the insured, and the lawyer must exercise independent professional judgment on behalf of the insured." Id. at 150.
		Generally, "when a defense is provided by a liability insurer, 'as part of the insurer's obligation to provide for the insured's defense, the policy grants the insurer the right to control that defense—which includes the power to select the lawyer that will defend the claim." Nucor Corp. v. Emps. Ins. Co. of Wausau , 975 F. Supp. 2d 1048, 1055 (D. Ariz. 2013) (quoting Paradigm Ins. Co. v. The Langerman L. Offs., P.A. , 200 Ariz. 146, 149 (2001)).
		While Arizona law does not specifically permit an insured to seek independent counsel, if a conflict of interest is present, the defense counsel's primary obligation must be to the insured, and the insured and its attorney control the litigation. Safeway Ins. Co., Inc. v. Guerrero , 210 Ariz. 5, 12 (2005).
		Statute :
AR	Undecided	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law:
		The Supreme Court of Arkansas has not directly addressed an insured's right to independent counsel.
		However, the Eastern District of Arkansas held that where a conflict of interest exists between the insured and the insurer, the insured may select counsel of its own choosing. Northland Ins. Co. v. Heck's Service Co., 620 F.Supp. 107, 108 (E.D. Ark. 1985).
	S	In Union Ins. Co. v. The Knife Co., Inc., 902 F. Supp. 877, 881 (W.D. Ark. 1995) , the Court noted that "an attorney employed by an insurance company will slant his efforts, perhaps unconsciously, in the interests of his real client—the one who is paying his fee and from whom he hopes to receive future business—the insurance company." Relying on the Eighth Circuit's reasoning in Howard v. Russell Stover Candies, Inc., 649 F.2d 620 (8th Cir. 1981), the Court found that the insured was entitled to select its own counsel because "the conflict situation cannot be eliminated so long as the insurance company selects the counsel [,] [i]t is simply a matter of human nature." Union Ins. STATE	ANSWER	RIGHT TO INDEPENDENT COUNSEL: SUPPORTING AUTHORITY
		Statute:
CA	Yes	If the provisions of a policy of insurance impose a duty to defend upon an insurer, and a conflict of interest arises which creates a duty on the part of the insurer to provide independent counsel to the insured, the insurer shall provide independent counsel to represent the insured unless, at the time the insured is informed that a possible conflict may arise or does exist, the insured expressly waives, in writing, the right to independent counsel. Cal. Civ. Code § 2860(a).
		In preparing Section 2860, the California Legislature rejected the notion that a mere potential conflict of interest creates a right to independent counsel. Section 2860 provides that a conflict of interest exists when an insurer reserves its rights on a coverage issue and the outcome of that coverage issue can be controlled by defense counsel retained by the insurer. Cal. Civ. Code § 2860(b).
		Case Law :
		The "Cumis" Case
		In Cumis , the California Court of Appeals for the Fourth Appellate District held that insureds have a right to independent counsel paid for by the insurer whenever "there are divergent interests of the insured and the insurer brought about by the insurer's reservation of rights based on possible non-coverage under the insurance policy." San Diego Navy Federal Credit Union, et al. v. Cumis Ins. Society, Inc., 162 Cal.App.3d 358, 375 (1984) ("Cumis"). The Appellate Court, citing California's Rules of Professional Conduct, held that in a situation where a potential conflict of interest arises, an insurer is contractually obligated to pay for independent counsel. Id. at 373-74 . The California Legislature responded to Cumis by enacting California Civil Code § 2860 three years later.
		However, in Dynamic Concepts , the Appellate Court noted that Cal. Civ. Code § 2860 did not adopt the absolutist view that every reservation of rights creates a conflict of interest requiring the retention of independent counsel. Dynamic Concepts, Inc. v. Truck Ins. Exchange , 61 Cal. App. 4th 999, 1007–08 (1998). Instead, the Court held that "[t]he potential for conflict requires a careful analysis of the parties' respective interests to determine whether they can be reconciled or whether an actual conflict of interest precludes insurer-appointed defense counsel from presenting a quality defense for the insured." Id. at 1007–08.

Group v. District Court, 625 P.2d 1013, 1018 (Colo. 1981) . In fact, no Colorado court has addressed whether an insurer must provide independent counsel for its insured under a reservation of rights. See, e.g., Hecla Min. Co. v. New Hampshire Ins. Co., 811 P.2d 1083, 1098 n.7 (Colo. 1991) .
	5	However, in Shelter , the Colorado Court of Appeals noted that, under the Colorado Rules of Professional Conduct, an insurance company's defense counsel owes a duty to only the policyholder. Shelter Mut. Ins. Co. v. Vaughn, 300 P.3d 998 (Colo. Ct. App. 2013).
		In addition, based on Bankr. Estate of Morris v. COPIC Ins. Co., 192 P.3d 519, 524–25 (Colo. App. 2008) , it is best practice to advise insureds of the right to retain personal counsel to advise them of the potential of excess risk and/or coverage issues.

The court reasoned: "In determining whether a conflict of interest exists, Illinois courts have considered whether, in comparing the allegations of the complaint to the policy terms, the interest of the insurer would be furthered by providing a less-than-vigorous defense to those allegations[,] [a]n insurer's interest in negating policy coverage does not, in and of itself, create sufficient conflict of interest to preclude the insurer from assuming the defense of its insured[,] [h]owever, a conflict of interest has been found where the underlying action asserts claims that are covered by the insurance policy and other causes which the insurer is required to defend but asserts are not covered by the policy." Id. ΟJ	Sometimes	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		New Jersey does not recognize the insured's right to unilaterally select defense counsel to be paid concurrently by the carrier when a carrier issues a reservation of rights letter. If the carrier desires to defend under a reservation of rights, the carrier cannot assume control of the defense absent the specific agreement by the insured to the reservation of rights after being informed of the conflict. In the event the insured does not accept a defense or reservation of rights the insured is allowed to select its own defense counsel, with a right of reimbursement from the carrier, if it is later found in the underlying lawsuit that the claim falls within the ambit of coverage under the policy. Burd v. Sussex Mut. Ins. Co. , 56 N.J. 383, 389-90 (1970).

Co. v. Viegas, 667 A.2d 785 (R.I. 1995)), held that there are several methods of resolving a conflict of interest between the insurer and the insured, which includes insisting that the insured hire independent counsel, or the insurer hiring two sets of attorneys—one to represent the insured and the other to represent the insurer. Am. Employers' Ins. Co. v. Crawford, 87 N.M. 375, 381 (1975) .
		Statute :
NY	Sometimes	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law:
		In Goldfarb , the New York Court of Appeals concluded that independent counsel is only required in cases where a clear conflict of interest exists between the interests of the insured and the insurer, as where counsel's duty to the insured would require him to seek to dismiss the action on grounds that would affect the insurer's interests. Public Service Mutual Ins. Co. v. Goldfarb , 53 N.Y.2d 392, 401 (1981). Specifically, the court held that "[i]ndependent counsel is only necessary in cases where the defense attorney's duty to the insured would require that he defeat liability on any ground and his duty to the insurer would require that he defeat liability only upon grounds which would render the insurer liable." Id.
		When the insured is entitled to independent counsel, the insurer is required to pay for independent counsel of the insured's choosing. 69th Street and 2d Ave. Garage Associates v. Ticor Title Guaranty Co., 207 A.D.2d 225, 228 (New York Ct. App. 1995).

		While the North Carolina Supreme Court has not directly addressed an insured's right to independent counsel, in National Mortgage Corporation v. American Title Insurance Company , the Court of Appeals of North Carolina held that an insured is not required to accept a conditional defense of an action by the insurer under a reservation of rights, and may still seek indemnity for the costs incurred in its own defense of the action. National Mortgage Corp. v. American Title Ins. Co. , 41 N.C.App. 613, 621-22 (1979) (rev'd on other grounds by National Mortg. Corp. v. American Title Ins. Co. , 299 N.C. 369 (1980)).

		North Dakota courts have yet to directly address an insured's right to independent counsel. However, in Allickson , the North Dakota Supreme Court held that if an insurer wishes to retain control of the litigation in a case involving a coverage dispute, the appropriate response is for the insurer to continue to defend the insured and bring a declaratory judgment action to determine coverage. D.E.M. v. Allickson , 555 N.W.2d 596, 602 (N.D. 1996).
		In the event of a conflict of interest, an insurer may either retain independent counsel of its own choosing or should reimburse the insured for independent counsel of the insured's choosing. Fetch v. Quam, 530 N.W. 2d 337, 341(N.D. 1995).

Imperial Casualty & Indemnity Co. , 78 Ohio App.3d 11, 16 (1992). When such a conflict of interest exists between an insurer and an insured, the insurer must hire independent counsel to represent the insured, or allow the insured to select private counsel that the insurer must pay. Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. v. 		Case Law:
		In Nisson , the Court of Appeals of Oklahoma concluded that not every perceived or potential conflict of interest automatically gives rise to a duty on the part of the insurer to pay for the insured's choice of independent counsel. Nisson v. American Home Assurance Co. , 917 P.2d 488, 490 (Okla. App. 1996). Instead, the court held that "independent counsel is only necessary in cases where the defense attorney's duty to the insured would require that he defeat liability on any ground and his duty to the insurer would require that he defeat liability only upon grounds that would render the insurer liable." Id.
		Statute :
OR	No	If the provisions of a general liability insurance policy impose a duty to defend upon an insurer, and the insurer has undertaken the defense of an environmental claim on behalf of an insured under a reservation of rights, or if the insured has potential liability for the environmental claim in excess of the limits of the general liability insurance policy, the insurer shall provide independent counsel to defend the insured who shall represent only the insured and not the insurer. O.R.S. § 465.483(1) .
		Case Law:
		Oregon law does not provide insureds with a right to independent counsel in non-environmental matters.
		In Ferguson , the Oregon Supreme Court held that the insurer is not relieved of its duty to defend if it issues a reservation of right, but may still retain control of the defense. Ferguson v. Birmingham Fire Ins. Co. , 254 Or. 496, 509-510 (1969). The Court further addressed the conflict issue by concluding that the judgment in the original action is not binding on the insurer or insured in a subsequent coverage action. Id. at 510-11. As such, "there would be no conflict of interests between the insurer and the insured in the sense that the insurer could gain any advantage in the original action which would accrue to it in a subsequent action in which coverage is in issue." Id.

		Case Law:
		The Rhode Island Supreme Court held that in the event of a conflict of interest between an insurer and its insured, an insured is allowed to refuse appointed defense counsel and select its own defense attorney, with the insurer assuming the reasonable cost of attorney's fees. Employers' Fire Ins. Co. v. Beals , 103 R.I. 623, 635 (1968) (rev'd on other grounds by Peerless Ins. Co. v. Viegas , 667 A.2d 785 (R.I. 1995). The Court held that another possible solution would be to have the insured and the insurer represented by two different attorneys. Id. However, the insurer must approve the independent counsel selected by its insured, and such approval must not to be unreasonably withheld. Id .
		Statute :
SC	Undecided	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law :
		In Twin City Fire Ins. Co. v. Ben Arnold-Sunbelt Beverage Co. , the U.S. District Court discussed whether the Supreme Court of South Carolina would adopt a per se disqualification rule that would entitle an insured to select independent counsel at its insurer's expense any time the insurer attempts to defend a lawsuit under a reservation of rights. 336 F. Supp. 2d 610, 612-13 (D.S.C. 2004) . The Court ultimately concluded that South Carolina would not adopt such a rule because it rests upon the presumption that whenever a lawyer is confronted with a potential conflict of interest, the lawyer will always compromise the interests of the client, and the South Carolina Supreme Court would not engage in such a presumption. Id.
		The South Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct governs a lawyer's ethical obligation when paid by an insurance company to represent an insured: "A lawyer shall not permit a person who recommends, employs, or pays the lawyer to render legal services for another to direct or regulate the lawyer's professional judgment in rendering such legal services." 336 F. Supp. 2d 610, 615 (citing S.C. Rules of Professional Conduct, Rule 407; SCACR, Rule 5.4(c).).
		Statute:
SD	Undecided	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law:
		While the South Dakota Supreme Court has not directly addressed the right to independent counsel, in Engelmann , the Court held that attorneys representing insureds on behalf of insurers owe an undeviating fealty to the insured, and thus, conflicts of interest that develop under a reservation of rights should not impact the defense provided by the insurer. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Engelmann , 639 N.W.2d 192, 200 (S.D. 2002).
	5	In Connolly , the South Dakota Supreme Court held that an insurer did not have the right, without consent of the insured, to retain control of the defense and at the same time reserve its right to disclaim liability. Connolly v. Standard Casualty Co. , 76 S.D. 95, 100 (1955). Thus, once an insurer issues a reservation of rights, it loses the right to control the litigation unless the insured consents (either directly or implicitly) to the insurer assuming control. Id.

ΤN	No	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law:
		Tennessee law does not provide insureds with a right to independent counsel. The Tennessee Supreme Court held that no such right exists because counsel retained by an insurer to defend its insured must "exercise professional judgment and devote complete loyalty to the insured regardless of the circumstances." Petition of Youngblood, 895 S.W.2d 322, 328 (Tenn. 1995). The Court discussed several specific situations which may give rise to conflicts of interest, including: "(1) where a defense is afforded under a reservation of rights, (2) where there is a defense of alternative claims, one with coverage and the other with no coverage, (3) where there is a defense of claims for damages in excess of the policy limits, and (4) where the defense involves multiple insureds." Id.
		When an insurer offers the services of retained counsel to represent the insured, and the insured elects to defend through its own independent counsel, the insurer has no liability to the insured for attorney's fees. Town of Bell Buckle, Tennessee v. Home Ins. Co., No. 85-256-II, 1986 WL 2583, at *3 (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 26, 1986).

		In Davalos , the Supreme Court of Texas held that some conflicts of interest allow the insured to select independent counsel. N. County Mut. Ins. Co. v. Davalos , 140 S.W.3d 685, 688 (Tex. 2004). When discussing the types of conflicts that may vindicate an insured's right to independent counsel, the Court stated: "[w]hen the facts to be adjudicated in the liability lawsuit are the same facts upon which coverage depends, the conflict o interest will prevent the insurer from conducting the defense." Id. "On the other hand, when the disagreemen concerns coverage but the insurer defends unconditionally, there is, because of the application of estoppe principles, no potential for a conflict of interest between the insurer and the insured." Id.
		In Cambridge Mut. Fire Ins. Co. , the Court of Appeals held that when an insured hires counsel of his own choosing, the insured may look to the insurer for the payment of the attorney's fees. Britt v. Cambridge Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 717 S.W.2d 476, 481 (Tex. Ct. App. 1986).
		Statute :
UT	Undecided	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law:
	6	Utah courts have not addressed the right to independent counsel directly. However, the Eighth Circuit Court o Appeals, applying Utah law, held that where there is a conflict between the insurer's interest and that of the insured, the insurer must either provide an independent attorney to represent the insured or pay the costs incurred by the insured in hiring counsel of its own choice. U.S. Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Louis A. Roser Co., 585 F.2d 932, 939 n. 6 (8th Cir. 1978) (Utah and Minnesota law).
		When discussing the risk for conflict an insurer undertakes to defend its insured under a reservation of rights the Eighth Circuit stated: "We cannot escape the conclusion that it is impossible for one attorney to adequately and fairly represent two parties in litigation in the face of the real conflict of interest which existed here." Id. a 938 . "Even the most optimistic view of human nature requires [the court] to realize that an attorney employed

cont.		In Spratley, the Supreme Court of Utah held that "where no actual conflict exists or is foreseeable, an attorney will ordinarily represent both the interests of the insured and the insurer. Spratley v. 		Case Law:
		In Pratt , the court found that a conflict of interest may arise when an insurance company fails to seek consent of the policyholder for a defense under a reservation of rights. N. Sec. Ins. Co. v. Pratt , No. 838-11-10 WNCV , 2011 WL 8472930 (Vt. Super. May 19, 2011) . A conflict may also exist when an underlying complaint contains both covered and uncovered claims. Id. at 15-17 . However, in addressing the right to independent counsel, the court also held that so long as the insurance company appoints "a truly independent counsel," the policyholder does not have the right to select its own counsel because the "conflict is remedied." Id .
		In Beatty , the Supreme Court of Vermont held that "the insurer may, if it is in doubt as to its liability, refuse to assume the defense, and await the result, thus leaving the insured free to defend or compromise in his own way through his own counsel; or it may obtain some agreement with the insured, under which, by proceeding to defend, it shall not be considered to have enlarged its obligation under the policy, thus reserving its rights under that instrument." Beatty v. Employers' Liab. Assurance Corp. , Ltd., 106 Vt.25 923 (1933).
		Statute :
VA	Undecided	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law:
	\bigcirc	Virginia courts have not yet addressed an insured's right to independent counsel. However, in Norman , the Supreme Court of Virginia held that a possible conflict of interest on the part of counsel for the insurer could only occur if the attorney's actions fail to provide the insured with a full, fair and competent defense to the action. Norman v. Insurance Co. of N. Am. , 218 Va. 718, 727 (1978). Specifically, the Court held that "a client may presume that his attorney has no interest which will interfere with his devotion to the cause confided in him; and an insurer's attorney, employed to represent an insured, is bound by the same high standard which governs all attorneys and owes the insured the same duty as if he were privately retained by the insured." Id.

		Statute :
WA	No	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law:
		Washington law does not follow the notion that a defense under a reservation of rights automatically creates a conflict of interest which requires the insurer pay for independent counsel chosen by the insured. Johnson v. Cont'l Cas. Co., 57 Wash.App.359, 361 (1990).
		In Tank , the Washington Supreme Court ruled that an insurer defending under a reservation of rights has an "enhanced obligation of fairness towards its insured." Tank v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co., 105 Wash.2d 381, 387 (1986) . The Court held that the enhanced obligation is fulfilled by meeting specific criteria: (1) the company must thoroughly investigate the claim; (2) it must retain competent defense counsel for the insured, and both retained defense counsel and the insurer must understand that only the insured is the client; (3) the company must fully inform the insured of the reservation of rights defense and all developments relevant to policy coverage and progress of the lawsuit; and (4) the insurance company must refrain from any activity that would show a greater concern for its monetary interest than for the insured's financial risk. Id. at 388-91 .
		Statute:
wv	Yes	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law :
		In Wilson , the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia specifically addressed the right to independent counsel. The court stated:
		[U]nder the terms of most liability insurance policies, the insured agrees to permit the insurer to choose counsel to defend the insured against claims by third parties. Generally, the insurer and insured have compatible interests and goals in responding to a tort claim. However, their interests may diverge at times, creating a potential or actual conflict of interest [in this case the] evident conflict of interest made it necessary for [the insured] to retain independent counsel.
		State ex rel. Universal Underwriters Ins. Co. v. Wilson, 239 W.Va. 338, 345 (2017).
		In Barefield , the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia held that a defense attorney employed to represent an insured in a liability matter is not an agent of the insurance company because the attorney is professionally obligated to represent only the interests of the client/insured, not the interests of the insurance company. Barefield v. DPIC Companies, Inc. , 215 W.Va. 544, 556 (2004). Because a defense attorney is ethically obligated to maintain an independence of professional judgment in the defense of a client/insured, an insurance company possesses no right to control the methods or means chosen by the attorney to defend the insured. Id. at 558.

WI	Yes	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		The court in Jacob explained that an insurer has several options available when it wants to raise a coverage issue and retain its right to challenge coverage:
		One option requires the insurer to request a bifurcated trial on the issues of coverage and liability or a declaratory judgment on the coverage issue. Another option requires the insurer to give the insured notice of the insurer's intent to reserve its coverage rights. This allows the insured the opportunity to a defense not subject to the control of the insurer although the insurer remains liable for the legal fees incurred.
		Jacob v. West Bend Mut. Ins. Co., 203 Wis.2d 524, 536 (1996); Grube v. Daun, 173 Wis.2d 30, 75 (1992).
		Statute :
WY	Undecided	The right to independent counsel is not provided for by statute.
		Case Law :
		Wyoming courts have not yet addressed an insured's right to independent counsel. However, in Insurance Co. of N. Am. v. Spangler , a federal district court addressed the issue of whether the insured was barred from recovery from the insurer for a stipulated liability to which the insurer did not consent and the insured was not personally liable. The district court held that the "Wyoming Supreme Court would adopt the rationale of those cases holding that an insurer who reserves the right to deny coverage loses the right to control the litigation." Insurance Co. of N. Am. v. Spangler , 881 F. Supp. 539, 544 (D. Wyo. 1995).
		In Shoshone First Bank v. Pacific Employers Insurance Co., the Supreme Court of Wyoming accepted the general premise that an insurer is not required to pay for an insured who decides to pursue a counterclaim against it. Shosone First Bank v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co., 2 P.3d 510, 516 (2000).

50 State Legal Matrix – Right to Repair Laws for 2023

The following matrix provides insight into state statutory legislation that requires homeowners to notify builders of claimed defects and to provide builders with an opportunity to repair the defects before the homeowner files a formal lawsuit. These "right to repair" statutes function as an opportunity to avoid litigation whereby the builder can address the homeowner's claimed defects and attempt to repair the defects and allow homeowners to seek repairs without having to file a lawsuit. These laws vary from state to state, and one of the key differences is the amount of time a homeowner must wait after notifying the construction professional of the defect prior to proceeding with a lawsuit.

50 State Legal Matrix – Statutes of Repose for 2023

This matrix identifies which states have enacted statutes of repose and the statutes' respective terms. A statute of repose is a law establishing a deadline for filing a claim or lawsuit when a construction defect or consumer product causes injury to a person or property. Each statute of repose deadline is calculated from the date when the cause of action materialized or "accrued." This matrix notes the period of repose, whether the period can be extended, and other considerations included in state repose statutes.
